

Take your game to the next level.

Spend more time winning, less time guessing. Stay ahead with accurate rankings, advanced tools, and data-driven content.

Ravens plan to use more no-huddle in offense

Monday, November 14, 2016 - 7:11pm

Baltimore Sun - [\[Full Article\]](#)

ter it worked last week, the Ravens plan to go to the no-huddle more frequently.

The team employed a hurry-up offense that exploded for 22 points in the second half of Thursday night's 28-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns, coach John Harbaugh said going no-huddle should be a staple of the offensive menu for the remainder of the season.

Related players: Joe Flacco

Fantasy Impact:

Harbaugh and offensive coordinator Marty Mornhinweg made the decision at halftime to loosen the reins on an offense that had recorded 14 first downs and 164 yards in the first half, but trailed 7-6 at intermission. Flacco, who had thrown just one touchdown pass in the three games prior to Thursday's, tossed three in a span of 18 minutes, 20 seconds during the second half. He completed 13-of-17 passes for 163 yards, three touchdowns and one interception in the half.

Filed Under: 2016, W11

4for4 Fantasy Football. Copyright © Intense Industries, LLC. All rights reserved.